PRELIMINARY WORK.

The Project of Enforcing the Unit Rule Abandoned by the Grant Men—Other Preliminary Work of the Republicans.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Mr. Grant's managers in Chicago have given up the idea of enforcing the instructions of the state conventions, for the reason, as they assert, that the ex-president is more powerful than the unit rule, and that if they are strong enough to carry that proposition they can nominate their man without it. Taking the view of the situation here outlined, they argue that, as by pressing this objectionable feature of their original programme they would necessarily make enemies, it is better for all concerned to abandon the project. The fact appears to be that both Grant and Blaine are practically whipped. Their supporters have gone so far however, that they must and will make a fight, but, when the inevitable deadlock comes, a break of almost any description may be looked for. It was rumored last night that Blaine would lead in a movement of this character, with Mr. Edmunds for first and Mr. Washburne for second.

There was a conference of the New York delegation, on yesterday, lasting over four hours, at which considerable excitement prevailed. Senator Conkling opened the proceedings with a characteristic oratorical effort, stating that there was no doubt, and that all the gentlemen from the Empire State would in honor obey the instructions of the Syracuse convention. When he sat down, State Senator Woodin declared that he spoke only for himself, but he could say most emphatically that he would never vote for U. S. Grant. He was followed by Messrs. Wagner, Daggett, and others in a similar strain. Mr. Conkling then took the floor and began to coax and reason with the delegates personally, but did not appear to make much headway. After going around the room, he submitted a resolution declaring that the delegation would abide by the instructions, and on putting it to a vote discovered that the twenty-one dissenters had increased to twenty-three. This closed the proceedings.

CHICAGO, June 2.—The National Committee meeting yesterday decided to adjourn till to-morrow. The delegates were to be given POINTS FROM PRISON.

Burr Robbins' Show Inside the Walls—Some of the Scenes in Wau-puna.

WAUPUNA, Wis., May 30, 1880.—I wish to speak through the columns of your estimable paper of a few of the passing, flitting joys that come as refreshing summer showers in the prison home, where unfortunate are isolated from the outside world with its pleasures and enjoyments. Under the management of Warden Carter and Deputy White, the prisoners are shown very many favors. They permit about twenty-five to thirty into the yard, with an officer in charge, for an hour's recreation daily at 5 o'clock. Thursday Burr Robbins—the man with the big heart—passed through the prison yard in procession with his street parade, giving to the men, who were drawn up in line, a glimpse of the long, long ago. Three cheers showed the appreciation of the boys. At five o'clock we went up to the chapel, where we were given a splendid concert by the troupe connected with the circus. The familiar face of Joanne Smith gleamed with its pleasantness from the orchestra. To say he did as well as usual, is saying too much. The applause and cheers showed that for a time at least, the boys forgot their troubles, and liked the concert.

To-day, Decoration Day, our chapel was decorated with flowers, while outside the fence a fine order gave us sweet music and songs, and the Cornet Band added much to the pleasure. The change is decidedly for the better, and the record shows that under the new treatment the discipline has improved.

WOMEN IN THE TREASURY.

An Experience of Seventeen Years. Washington Correspondence of Louisville Journal.

After nearly seventeen years of service in the United States Treasury I feel competent to write on the subject of women in government employ. In the first place, a writer to the Equivocal is mistaken when he says that employment was first given to women on the impulse of the rebellion, when the widows, sisters, and daughters of deceased officers were pressed into the public service as a matter of need and gratitude. The truth is that the women had to be employed to count, sign, and arrange the greenbacks which were issued to meet the emergency of the war. After the first war loan was effected the ladies were kept at work until after midnight signing the crisp new notes, which did more than the sword in putting down the rebellion. Then the Internal Revenue Bureau was organized, and it was a matter of economy to employ hundreds of women at $50 a month, and leave the large salaries for men. It was necessary to increase the force in the Quartermaster General's office, and again the government took advantage of the needy women, and made them write or copy for $50 a month, side by side with the men who received $100 and over that amount for the same class of work. It is no child's work to perform the duties of the department. It is to get to the office every day, in all kinds of weather and at all seasons, and to be closely confined from 9 to 4 o'clock. The writer of the article speaks as though the average was $1,000 a year. This is a mistake; $500 is the salary, with one here and there who is fortunate enough by long years of responsibility and hard labor to be promoted to $1,000 or $1,200.

The writer suggests that all the women who have turned out and men put in their places, and have their own families and a mother-in-law to support. With characteristic recklessness he in one place speaks of the confinement to clerical labor, and in another that the duties are light, and that the women use their salaries in extravagant dress. The girls especially use their money to buy ribbons. It is true that there are many girls among those in government employ, and I look at them with great respect when I see them cheerfully recounting the pleasures incident to youth, and pressing what should be the happiest years of their lives in the close, foul air of the departments, and working hard for the support of parents or the education of younger members of the family. One girl in the same office with myself has been there seven years. She gives all her salary to her father and mother, who for years have been in ill health. She uses none of her money for personal adornment, or, indeed, anywhere but from home to the Treasury, back again to her home and sewing, and on Sundays goes to church. A year ago a gentleman's desk was vacated, he preferring work in another bureau—his salary of $1,800 a year was said and continuity to him. Miss P., the young and pretty girl I refer to, was taken from the work she was employed to do at $300 and put at the vacant desk. She has since that time discharged the duties with regularity and to the satisfaction of the head of the bureau. There have been two opportunities to increase her salary. Two of the head clerks have died during the winter. In the first case the vacancy was filled by promoting those of the men who were below the deceased clerk down to a messenger, who went up to $1,200. In the next instance, an outgoing man, was promoted, and Miss P. still runs the desk at the old $300 a year. It seems strange that men do not feel ashamed to practice such gross injustice upon a needy and deserving class, for there is no complaint in any of the departments in regard to the employment of women. There they are respected, and appreciation of their abilities is shown by putting them at men's desks whenever occasion arises. The two most abstruse set of sheets, figures, and reports made in the office of the Comptroller of the Currency are those prepared by Miss Simpson and a handsome young widow, Mrs. McCormick. This lady has a young son to raise and educate.

Senator Garfield's New Home.

Mentor Correspondence Cleveland Leader.
General Garfield's new house at this place has been built almost entirely from plans in the head of Mrs. Garfield. Blackburn, as requested, drew a slight sketch, and Mrs. Garfield filled it out, the General marking in various directions with bold strokes of the pen. When the ideas of the wife of the distinguished Congressman had been put on paper, General Garfield wrote the following underneath as a gentle hint to the builders:
"These plans must stand as above, unless otherwise ordered hereafter. It may part of them is impracticable, inform me soon and suggest change."

J. A. GARFIELD.

Washington, March 6, 1880.
The Garfield farm house cannot be called grand in any sense of the word, but will be a very convenient country house, superior to the majority along this section of the ridge road. It is of the gothic style of architecture, mingled, however, with other styles, as to form what the contractor calls a "mixture." A roomy porch extends along the front and part of the side toward Cleveland, affording opportunities for enjoyment in the fresh air, and out of the way of the heat of the sun. Lattice work has been arranged in front for trailing vines. Sixty feet front by fifty deep is the size, and the structure is two stories and a half high. The apartments are all roomy for a country house, and the wide hallway attracts attention the first thing on entering.

General Garfield has marked that section of the plan where the pantry is located, "Plenty of shelves and drawers," and in the rear part of the second floor is written "Saucery for General." The last mentioned room is rather small, measuring only 13½ by 14 feet. It is to be fitted up with book shelves, but Garfield will still continue to use as a library the detached building erected a year or two since in the yard, northeast of the house. Two of the best of the apartments in the eastern and front part of the edifice are being especially fitted up for the occupancy of Mrs. Garfield, mother of the General. The front room has a large, old-fashioned fireplace, and the pains being taken to make everything comfortable here plainly show the tender feelings that General Garfield bears toward her who gave him birth.

Dr. Robison noticed me admiring this room and said: "The General thinks everything of his mother. You know he chipped a hundred cords of wood once for $35 and took the money home to her." There are very few of the timbers of the old house over which the new has been constructed, visible at this time, and Dr. Robison thinks there will be none in sight when the carpets are put down. The cost of the structure will be when finished but between $3,500 and $4,000, which will be remarkably slight when the expense of securing such workmen as were wanted, so far away from the city, is considered. The work has been hurried forward with rapidity, particularly within the last few weeks, as it was intended to get it as nearly finished as possible before the General's return. Probably a week or two more will witness its completion. It was started about three months ago.

CIRCUS!

There is a circus advertisement in a Minnesota paper that beats all of them for romance in its cuts. The picture referred to is that of an elephant walking to the top of a circus tent on a single wire, waving an American flag held in its trunk. The only balancing pole the elephant seems to have is his tail and trunk. Thousands of people are pictured on the ground below, looking up with mouths open, and the pirate in the ticket wagon is selling tickets rapidly. It is not the mission of this paper to doubt statements of circus men, or to throw a cloud over their reputation for veracity, but we will bet a bound dog against a giraffe that no elephant can walk to the top of a circus tent on a wire. When the day arrives they will say the elephant has cast a shoe, or had the colic, and can't walk.—Peck's Sun.

The above is a good illustration of the way Janesville Clothing Merchants advertise, present company of course excepted, but the cut mentioned; fails to fully represent some of the wonderful inducements offered—on paper—by the great establishments of our city. If there are humbug circuses there are certainly humbug clothing stores, with their sideshows out in front—usually the principal feature—blowers and solicitors at the door, &c. An old time clown probably writes some of the advertisements, as no one else would ever think of resurrecting the ancient expressions used, and it must please the oldest inhabitants to see in print at the present time, the slang phrases and sayings of their boyhood days. We are running a Clothing Store that performs everything advertised or money refunded, and nine years' experience of the present firm, has demonstrated to our entire satisfaction, that the majority of people like this style of doing business, but on this subject we will see you later.

—The Bower City Band took one of Carter's carriages for Albion, to-day, where they are to play at the exercises of the Academy, and give a concert.

—One of our census takers has found one citizen who was not born in either Europe, Asia, Africa or America. His birth was in an ocean steamer's berth.

—The census takers have already begun work. Be patient with them, and answer their questions with due patience, for the law requires them to ask a good many.

—Michael Donahoe fell into a drunken stupor in the Police Court yesterday, and had to be lagged out, and taken to jail to sober off. This morning he came back in his right mind, and was fined $3 and costs.

—A number of the leading officials of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad reached the city yesterday afternoon to look over the project of building the track to Beloit. They took a special train for Monroe last evening.

—Ex-Congressman O. B. Matteson who was a prominent speculator in Janesville and Rock county 20 years ago, celebrated his golden wedding in Utica, New York, last week Monday. He married Mary Augusta Halbert in 1830—Beloit Outlook.

—George Croesman, of Rock, who was nearly killed by getting caught by a tumbling rod of a threshing machine last October, has only recovered enough to get out of bed. He has had a hard pull but is gritty, and expects to pull out all right in time.

—Charles Bowerman has arranged water works for his own home, with windmill power, water tank, and one of the handsomest fountains in the city to beautify his lawn. George Friedrich put in the fountain, and it is in tip-top shape, and attracts the attention of all passers-by.

—A Beloit youth named McNary was recently sentenced by Judge Conger for entering a dwelling house at Beloit, and sentence suspended bonds being given for $500. A few nights ago McNary got on a spree and was locked up, and the Judge hearing of it, sent for him. He came before his Honor yesterday, and received an hour's good fatherly talk, and a warning to conduct himself differently, after which he was allowed to go free again, conditional on his good behavior.

—Last evening a little company of Janesville folk went by team to Hanoverville, and there gave an entertainment for the benefit of the church there. Among those who went were Miss Dolly Patten, Mrs. Day, Miss Battle, Miss Emma Joselyn, Warren Collins, Charles Patterson, and Will Buntlin. The entertainment consisted of music, readings, character songs, etc. The church was crowded to its fullest capacity. The troupe returned by team and reached home about four o'clock this morning.

—Dr. A. H. Davis, of this city has lately published a work setting forth the improved theory and practice of medicine, as deduced from forty years successful practice and written in a plain, simple language as possible, in order to make it available for family use. The work contains descriptions of every part of the system, a catalogue of diseases, their symptoms, causes, and best mode of treatment. It advises how to preserve the health as well as how to regain it, and all subjects are handled in detail.

Palmer, John Spence, and J. H. Hunkins. The first ballot of the jury resulted in a verdict of acquittal. Afterwards Attorney Blanchard sought to have the Court find that the prosecution was malicious, and throw the costs upon Mr. Hoskins, but the Court decided against such a move.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

Last evening the pupils of Mrs. J. W. St. John and Prof. Titcomb gave a musical at the Congregational church. There was rather a light attendance and the audience was made up largely of the immediate friends of those who took part in the programme. The pupils both in song and at the keyboard showed themselves as having won much proficiency, and while there was no wonderful work done, yet it averaged well, and showed clearly that in vocal instruction Mrs. St. John secures improvement and that in instrumentation Prof. Titcomb is doing justice by his pupils. The programme was a good one, and well rendered, but was too long, if considered as an entertainment. The following were the numbers as given:

Fantasia—Norma—6 hands—Czerny.
Misses Crosby, Chapman, Mr. C. G. Titcomb.
Cuban Dance—Paganini—Gottschalk.

WINTERMUTE WINS.

Last evening there was another drill of the Janesville Guards for the prize medal offered by Lieutenant Glass to the member best drilled in the manual of arms. Under the conditions, the winner of the medal has to hold it against all competitors in three successive drills. Cole McLean won it on the first drill, but lost again the last, though he was one of the three who was last to give up. The successful winner was Charles E. Wintermute, who in the previous drill came very near winning the medal, and perhaps would have done so, had not the summer of his gun caught and tore his blouse. All the boys drilled well, and the mistakes which were made were all of a night nature, such as would have escaped notice ordinarily in any company drill. At the close of the drill Dr. J. B. Whiting presented the medal to the winner, in a short and appropriate speech. There were a large number of visitors at the armory last evening, in fact all who could be comfortably seated, and considerable interest was manifested by those watching the contest.

AGAIN IN THE TOILS.

Steve Caniff, who has kept from public notice for some time now, has again got himself into trouble. He stole a book from his landlady, no less a book that "Grant's Life and Travels," doubtless desiring to get it before the convention, but he hadn't time to read the subject up, before he was nabbed by Officer Smith. This morning he pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny, and was sentenced by Justice Nolan, to forty days in jail. Whisky seems to be the underlying and understanding cause of Caniff's troubles, and still the poor fellow seems not to learn the lesson. When he was released from the State Prison a short time ago, friends rallied about him, and did all in their power to encourage him, gave him money, clothes, and work, but his appetite for drink had led him to betray them all, and for sometime he has gone from bad to worse, until now he is locked up in jail again.

STATE FAIR PREMIUM LIST.

The premium list and regulations of the twenty-sixth general exhibition of the Wisconsin Agricultural Society, to be held at Madison September 6th to 10th, has just been issued from the Gazette office. It is a pamphlet of eighty pages, and besides containing all the information needed for exhibitors and visitors, has a goodly amount of advertising matter, which will not only prove advantageous to the advertiser, but to those desiring to buy. The pamphlet is attractive in appearance, convenient in arrangement, and as a specimen of printer's skill speaks its own praise in behalf of the job department of which Mr. John McCulloch is the efficient foreman. That he thoroughly understands his business needs no further proof than the pamphlet just issued. It will challenge comparison with any of the premium lists.

FIRST GENERAL ORDER.

The following order assigning the several companies of the First Battalion to their respective positions, was read at the dress parade of the Battalion at the close of Decoration day:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION, WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD, JANESVILLE, May 31, 1886.

General Order No. 1.

Companies will be designated and take position in the Battalion according to date of Captains commissions as follows:

Janesville Guards to be Company A, and first company in line.

Bower City Rifles to be Company B, and second company in line.

Custer Rifles to be Company C, and third company in line.

Delevan Guards to be Company D, and fourth company in line.

Beloit City Guards to be Company E, and fifth company in line.

On assuming personal command of the Battalion, I improve the occasion to congratulate the several companies composing the Battalion on the soldierly appearance, efficiency in drill and good discipline, to which they have already attained. I also recommend you to still greater exertions in these particulars. As we now compose the First Battalion in the State of Wisconsin, let us strive to be first in all that will make good and efficient soldiers. I would especially recommend to officers and men the observance of strict discipline on drills and parades, for discipline is the one important feature that distinguishes a good soldier.

Be regular in your weekly drills, for only by constant practice can you attain to that degree of perfection which will be satisfactory to yourselves, and meet the approval of your superior officers. The community in which you live expect you to make a reputation as a battalion, and I believe they will not be disappointed.

By order

W. B. BRITTON,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

M. A. NEWMAN, Adjutant.

Pretty and Young.

In every feature but the hair, which had grown white from fever. This lady at 35 writes us: "I have used Parker's Hair Balsam six months and am more than pleased with it. It has restored the natural brown color of my hair and given it a silky softness, nicer than ever before. There is no dandruff, no falling hair, and it leaves the scalp so clean and nice and cool that I am ever so much pleased, and I feel like my hair is my own again." The beautiful, fresh and vigorous hair it produces, together with its property of restoring gray or faded hair to the natural youthful color, and entirely freeing the head from dandruff and itching, surprises no less than it pleases. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents and $1.00 by all first class druggists.

CITY NOTICES.

No preparation of Hypophosphites I have ever used can compare with Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for restoring strength to the nervous system.

I think it the best medicine that I ever used.

CATARRH

IS IT CURABLE?

THOSE who have suffered from the various and complicated forms of disease known as Catarrh, and have tried many physicians and remedies without relief or cure, will find answer to this question with considerable anxiety. And well they may, for no disease has been so generally and so destructively to health as Catarrh. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, and serious and frequently fatal affections of the lungs follow in many instances, a case of simple neglected Catarrh. Other sympathetic affections such as deafness, impaired eyesight, and loss of sense of smell may be referred to Catarrh, but nevertheless serious results of neglected Catarrh, but enough in themselves, but as nothing compared with the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs likely to follow.

IT CAN BE CURED.

It can be cured. There is no doubt about it. The immediate relief afforded by CATARRHIC CURE FOR CATARRH is but a slight evidence of what may follow a permanent use of this remedy. The hard increased mucus that has lodged in the nasal passages is removed with a few applications of the CATARRHIC CURE, and the inflamed and swollen membrane of the nose is cleared and healed; the entire membranous lining of the head is cleared and healed; the CATARRHIC CURE is that of a powerful purifying agent, destroying in the course of three or four days the acid poison, the destructive agent in catarrhal diseases.

A COMPLICATED CASE.

Gentlemen—My case is briefly as follows: I have had Catarrh for ten years, and with increasing severity. For nine years I had not breathed through one nostril, and had to breathe through the other. I had a constant discharge from the throat, every day cough, asthma so bad as to be obliged to take remedy for it, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so heavy that I could not sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so heavy that I could not sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so heavy that I could not sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head.

Indorsed by a Prominent Druggist.

I hereby certify that Mr. J. M. Lawrence purchased the CATARRHIC CURE of me, and from time to time made me familiar with his case. I believe his statement to be true in every particular.
